

HELP BUILD A WELLBEING ECONOMY

Let's evolve the economy!

Today's society faces many problems, such as poverty, environmental distress, inequality and corruption, and in a way all of this is related to our economic systems. Nowadays you see everything is about making money: GROWING your wealth, and GROWING your power. We from WEAll thinks this does not always work. Let's take a step back from focusing on growth and try to not focus so much on profit but rather on the care for people and planet.

WEAll Youth is a network of young people who want to make a change. We, as young people, realized that money is the root of many problems but also the key to many solutions. We promote any kind of new economic model that detaches from the believe that we should only focus on profit, and thus rather see profit as a mean to achieve social or environmental goals. This philosophy is applicable on all levels of society: from the big multinationals to the homeless on the street. You as an individual can have tremendous effect on the world by making some conscious decisions like:

- Choosing to put your money on a bank that values ethical investments. A bank that only invests in the right causes, and not just any conventional bank that earns money from investing in weapons, war or any other cause that harm the people and the environment.
- Your spending behavior can send a very powerful message to the suppliers, by not buying products that damage the environment or are produced in sweatshops, YOU directly tell the producers that you no longer are interested in their harmful products. Every purchase can be a vote for a better world.
- As a company you can implement social impact goals, like helping to fight climate change, or investing in better care for your employees, or production sites.

We, as young people, are the future generation of leaders and people of influence, therefore we need to act. That is why we, from WEAll Youth, took responsibility and started this movement. We strive to spread the word about new economies, a more sustainable lifestyle and empower others who believe in the same passion. We are building a community of young individuals all over the world that share ideas and believes, while also starting local hubs who take local action and initiatives. Our mission is to build a global movement of regional youth communities that work together synergistically to facilitate a wellbeing economy, and make a change.

WEAll Youth does not only criticize the current economic system, we try to inform people about the problem and connect people, in order to come up with new solution. Or even try to be the solution together. By connecting people all over the world and supporting projects of the community we can help each other in achieving our mutual goal, changing the world for the better.

So, if you think that the economic system needs a change and that it should function in a way where society and the planet are treated with respect, join our cause. Sign this charter and pledge that you no longer agree with the way the world currently functions.

Interested, and willing to HELP BUILDING A WELLBEING ECONOMY?

By signing this charter, you will become the changemaker you want to be in WEAll Youth!

#weallinthisogether